

HOW TO BECOME A STREET-WISE down under Australian immigrant

–A South-African perspective

The Author is a returning South-African resident after more than seven years of residency in Australia. She has obtained Australian citizenship and has realized through personal experience just how unprepared the South-African emigrant is for the challenges that Australia presents.

This book aims to equip the person immigrating to Australia to deal with the new environment and its subsequent hardships and to lessen the impact of the traumatic emigrational process.

We trust that the practical guidelines contained herein will assist the reader to remain positive about his/her decision, to effectively cope with the emigrational adjustments he/she will have to make, and that he/she can advance unperturbed in achieving his/her goals and dreams in the land 'down under'

NADIA NIEUWOUTD

DISCLAIMER STATEMENT

The information contained herein is provided as a public service on the understanding that Mirrin Relocation, its employees, and the author of this work make no warranties, either expressed or implied, concerning the accuracy, completeness, reliability, or suitability of the information. Users of this publication do so at their own risk and Mirrin Relocation, its employees and the author of this work accept no responsibility for any damage (whether it be direct or consequential in nature) resulting from the usage of the information contained therein. Nor do Mirrin Relocation, its employees and the author of this work warrant that the use of this information is free of any claims of copyright infringement.

Readers indemnify Mirrin Relocation, its employees and the author completely against any claims whatsoever.

It is specifically acknowledged that the information researched for this project was done during the period June-October 2007 and that subsequent price increases for excursions might prevail and that the currency of the information might vary.

Pictures courtesy of ausiewildlife.com

How to become a Street-Wise, Down Under Australian Immigrant

-A South-African perspective

N A D I A N I E U W O U D T